

Figure S4. Protein production by lake. Bacterial production assays with C14-leucine were performed at each time point. No diel trends in protein production were observed, but there was variation across the time series.